

Dear Board Member and Manager ...

According to the Nevada DOT, the price for one ton of asphalt has risen by 57% from June of 2021 to today. Factor in the rising costs of other materials and labor and the price for an asphalt project is significantly more today than it was last year.

Why does this matter? Well, if your community hasn't been prioritizing pavement preservation you should be. Asphalt begins to deteriorate almost immediately, so it might not be too much longer before you are looking at an expensive, disruptive full replacement.

The good news is that there are cost effective ways to extend the life of your asphalt assets.

So let me ask you one more question, as a community manager or board member, if you could avoid a major future expense while also avoiding major construction on your community streets, would you do it?
